International Collaboration Between IUPUI and ATilim University
School of Engineering and Technology
Indiana University – Purdue University Indianapolis
Bekir Kelceoglu

Abstract

This is an international collaboration project between IUPUI's Interior Design and ATilim University's Interior Architecture programs. We are trying to design medical stations (triage stations) for disaster areas by using three used shipping containers. Students from both countries are collaborating using various technology.