

How Women and Men Approach Impact Investing

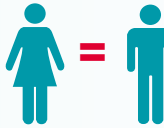

IMPACT INVESTMENTS are made into companies, organizations, and funds with the goal to generate social as well as financial returns.* Our latest study finds that both men and women are increasingly embracing the financial practice—but do so in different ways.

WOMEN are more likely to use impact investing to COMPLEMENT their charitable giving.

MEN are more likely to use impact investing IN PLACE OF charitable giving.

Women and men are equally likely to be aware of impact investing, BUT women are more likely to want to learn about impact investing.

IMPACT INVESTORS

are younger,

have higher levels of education,

have higher incomes.

People who use impact investments in place of all or some of their charitable giving tend to give more to religion, health, and animal causes.

Reflection Questions

HOW DO YOU THINK impact investing relates to philanthropy?

ARE YOU CONSIDERING how to support charitable causes financially beyond traditional giving?

*Definition adapted from The Global Impact Investing Network.

This infographic is supported by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. Findings and conclusions are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect official positions or policies of the funder.