Through Saudi Eyes:
Insight into the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia through Children’s Artwork
Susan Tomlinson, Franklin Central High School, Indianapolis, Indiana

Introduction
I have always been fascinated by the idea of artwork as the mirror of a culture. The 1995 issue of Saudi Aramco World featured a story highlighting Saudi children’s artwork from an annual national contest sponsored by Aramco. The vibrantly colored entries detailed the daily life of these Saudi children’s culture, and I used these pictures in my classroom lessons. In November of 2007, I was able to travel to Saudi Arabia as a part of the Aramco Educators to Saudi Arabia program. One focus of my trip was to photograph children’s artwork in the schools we visited. This lesson serves as an introduction to a study of Saudi Arabia and provides insight into the culture first through an examination of photographs of Saudi landscapes and culture and then through a study of children’s art.

Objectives
The students will be able to:
- identify the major physical features of Saudi Arabia and discuss the influence of geography on the culture of Saudi Arabia
- examine the basic tenets of Islam and its influence on Saudi culture
- compare and contrast the United States and Saudi Arabia
- analyze children’s artwork as a mirror of the culture
- compare artwork at their own school to Saudi children’s artwork to discover the similarities and differences between the two cultures

Time Required: 1-2 class periods
Materials Required: Handouts, computer access, LCD projector

Teacher Directions

1. Introduce students to Saudi Arabia through the use of textbook information and maps. Use Handout, The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to explore the borders, neighbors, coastline, land area and natural resources. Use the Handout Saudi Arabia: Facts and Figures to provide a brief overview of some basic characteristics of the country. The Five Pillars of Islam can be used as an overhead transparency to familiarize students with the basic beliefs and vocabulary of the Muslim’s religion.

2. Use the following link to present Inside the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia online slide show to students. Advise them to take notes in two columns during the slide show, one column for what they see that seems to be uniquely Saudi Arabian (or different from American culture) and another column for listing similarities or what you would also find within the culture of the U.S. Sample lists are provided below.

   Discuss briefly how Saudi Arabia’s location as an historic crossroad for trade routes has influenced its culture. Also the two most holy places (Makkah and Medina) for the religion of Islam are located in Saudi Arabia. The Quran serves as the basis for the Saudi constitution, therefore there is no separation of church and state.

   Point out that there are mosques and minarets in some communities in the U.S. Dearborn, Michigan, for example, has a large Muslim population. The Headquarters for the Islamic Center for North America is in Plainfield, Indiana.

3. Use the Comparing the U.S. and Saudi Arabia handout to point out specific similarities and differences between the two countries. Discuss the cause and effect relationship that result from some of the information provided here.
Possible questions for discussion include:

a. Why are there such differences when comparing the ethnic groups of both countries? What exactly is an Arab?

b. What kind of a constitution do we have? What is Shari’a law? What is the oldest constitution in the world? Why is Saudi Arabia’s constitution so young? What did they have before this constitution?

c. How does oil production and consumption affect our relationship with Saudi Arabia?

d. How does Saudi Arabia’s telephone usage compare to ours? What about cell phone usage?

4. Now that factual background information has been provided, it’s time to take a look at children’s art and determine what can be learned about the Saudi people “through children’s eyes.” Use the following link to play the online slide show entitled Children’s Artwork from Saudi Arabia. http://www.photoshow.net/watch/Ud3Pu9Nt

a. Introduction to slide show. These pictures will provide artwork of various types including textiles, crayon, watercolor, collage, colored markers, and acrylic paint. The ages of the artist range from nursery school to high school level and were produced by students in schools in Dhahran, Jeddah and Riyadh. Safeya Binzagr is an artist in Jeddah who also provides a variety of art classes and workshops for children, as well as a recent competition. This competition challenged art students to creatively decorate figures of angel fish. (For more information about Safeya Binzagr, there is a website listing in the Resources section of this lesson.)

b. There is brief descriptive text with each photo. The following questions can assist in guiding students as they watch the slide show.

1. What ecosystems are depicted in the first slides? What about these slides did you not expect?
2. What religious influences do you observe in the pictures?
3. Double wooden doors that are carved and/or intricately decorated are common in Saudi Arabia. What sort of statement does this make about the inhabitants of the house?
4. Notice the simple drawings of the “family members” on corkboard. How do these differ from drawings that American children might make for their family members?
5. There are also several examples of dressy clothes for women. How are these dresses similar to and different from what you might see in your community? What do you think is the reason for these differences?

6. There are several drawings of the inside of a house. How does this differ from what you might have expected from a Saudi Arabian house? In what ways are they similar to houses in your community?

7. The watercolor pictures of landscapes may not be from scenes in Saudi Arabia. Do you agree with this statement or not? Why were these scenes chosen?

8. The last picture is a desert scene. This photo was a contest winner created by Imad Jaha of Jeddah. Analyze the picture and discuss the ways in which men’s and women’s roles are depicted in the picture.

5. Conclusion/Wrap Up/Follow up

   Discuss the ways in which the children’s art work has broadened an understanding of the similarities and differences between the land and customs of Saudi Arabia and students’ local culture.

   Ask students to bring in examples of student art work from their home or school to display. Discus what these pieces of art say about the local culture.

6. Enrichment/Extensions

   Students can use personal digital cameras to produce a slide show of their own community, including additional pieces of artwork produced by students. These slide shows can be presented as a mirror reflection of their community and compared to what was presented about Saudi Arabia.
The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia Geography

Location
The kingdom occupies eighty percent of the Arabian Peninsula. Most of the country's boundaries with the United Arab Emirates, Oman, and Yemen have been defined.

Area
The Saudi government's estimate is approximately 2,250,000 square kilometers (868,730 square miles).

Geography.
Saudi Arabia, about one-fourth the size of United States, is spread over approximately 2,250,000 square kilometers (868,730 square miles), occupying almost 80 percent of the Arabian Peninsula. Located in the southwest corner of Asia, the Kingdom is at the crossroads of Europe, Asia and Africa. It is surrounded by the Red Sea on the West, by Yemen and Oman on the South, the Arabian Gulf and the United Arab Emirates and Qatar on the East, and Jordan, Iraq and Kuwait on the North. Saudi Arabia’s Red Sea coastline stretches about 1,760 kilometers (1,100 miles) while its Arabian Gulf coastline is roughly about 560 kilometers (350 miles).

Desert covers more than half the total area of Saudi Arabia. A narrow coastal plain runs through the Kingdom’s western coast while a range of mountains run parallel to the coastal plain along the Red Sea. Along the Arabian Gulf in the east is a low-lying region called Al-Hasa. The mountains in the west of the Kingdom are very rich in minerals with large deposits of limestone, gypsum and sand. The eastern region has the richest reservoirs of oil.
